Reproductive Biomedicine Online

Overview

This journal covers the formation, growth and differentiation of the human embryo. It is intended to bring to public attention new research on biological and clinical research on human reproduction and the human embryo including relevant studies on animals. It is published by a group of scientists and clinicians working in these fields of study, and independently of any publishing house. Its audience comprises researchers, clinicians, practitioners, academics and patients.

Web and paper versions of this journal bring up-to-date news on the clinical and scientific aspects of this topic, in two volumes per annum with a minimum of three issues per volume. New information, in the form of research papers and comment are presented in English, rapidly and responsibly, together with publishing-associated activities including articles, reviews, abstracts, editorials, commentaries, letters, opinions, case reports, patient information, conference reports, items relevant to counselling, interviews, ethics and law for patients, and other items. The journal is hyperlinked with websites of two charities covering pregnancy and miscarriage, and IVF and infertility.

Every attempt is made to publish rapidly and responsibly. Abstracts are posted on web soon after receipt, with a strong disclaimer stating that this material has not yet been peer-reviewed. Refereeing time is kept to a minimum, and full texts are presented on web immediately the refereeing and adjudicating process is ended. Fully proofed papers are subsequently published in web and paper versions. Submitted items including editorials, comment, news from wider sources, short communications, matters of legal, ethical and counselling importance will be placed on web as soon as possible after their arrival in the office and at the Editor's discretion. The Editor reserves the right to publish certain papers on web that have been criticised by the referees.

The internet version of papers enables data about reproductive health to be made rapidly available to men and women worldwide. Conference proceedings and reports, as well as book chapters discussing matters relevant to the journal's activities will be published. The journal headquarters are located in Cambridge. Articles can be sent to editors in the UK, Europe, India and the USA. Copyright is held by Reproductive Healthcare Ltd

13. Cancellations & Returns

The Client shall have the right to cancel any order for Products or Services by delivering notice of cancellation to Elsevier. The date of receipt of written notice of cancellation by Elsevier will determine the date on which the Products or Services shall be deemed to have been cancelled. The cancellation notice shall be in writing and shall state the reason for cancellation. The Client shall not be entitled to cancel any order for Products or Services if the Products or Services have been delivered, or if the Client has accepted delivery of the Products or Services. If the Client cancels an order for Products or Services, Elsevier shall be entitled to retain any amount paid by the Client to cover any costs incurred or committed/contracted from the date of receipt of written notice of cancellation by Elsevier.

10. Advertising & Reprints

Any order placed by the Client for advertisements must be cancelled in writing prior to the relevant ad date. Payment for advertisements does not include a payment of reasonable and bona fide expenditures, such as travel or lodging expenses, which are paid in connection with any sales or marketing activities. If a party wishes to discontinue any or all advertising, it shall provide written notice to Elsevier specifying the dates and quantities of such advertising.

9. Force majeure

If either party is prevented from performing any of its obligations by an event of force majeure, then such party shall be relieved of those obligations to the extent it is prevented from doing so as a result of the event of force majeure. The party subject to an event of force majeure shall use good faith efforts to comply as closely as possible with its obligations under the TC, and shall notify the other party of the nature and extent of the event of force majeure and the date on which it is expected to be resolved.

7. Intellectual property

TheTCwill not be construed as granting the Client any right to the Intellectual Property Rights. Elsevier retains all rights, title and interest in and to the Intellectual Property Rights.

4. Prices, taxes and currencies

The price of the Products shall be exclusive of any import duties or other taxes, unless otherwise agreed in writing. The Client will be responsible for paying all taxes that may be imposed in connection with the sale of Products or Services to the Client.

2. Offer and acceptance/ Description

Each order for the Products and Services by the Client from Elsevier shall be deemed to be an offer by the Client to purchase the Products and Services subject to the TC. Elsevier shall be deemed to accept any offer by the Client to purchase the Products and Services subject to the TC, if Elsevier delivers the Products or sends an invoice to the Client within a reasonable time after receipt of the offer. Any variation in the TC will be in writing and signed and acknowledged by an authorized signature of Elsevier. Nothing in the TC will be void or nullify Elsevier’s Liability for Fraudulent Misrepresentation.

1. Applicability

The Client shall be responsible for collecting and paying all applicable sales, use, value-added or other similar taxes, levies, duties and transaction or other similar fees imposed by any government or governmental official or any other person or entity, on or with respect to the purchase or delivery of the Products or Services by Elsevier. The Client agrees that it shall provide Elsevier with the information necessary to determine the amount of any such taxes, levies, duties or fees. The Client shall indemnify Elsevier for any taxes, levies, duties or fees that the Client is required to pay but fails to pay.
