The Lancet Haematology

Overview

The global community of researchers and clinicians working in the research and treatment of haematological disease needs a source of information that is authoritative, evidence-based, and clinically relevant. The Lancet Haematology will become that source, with practice-changing research articles, expert commentary, and provocative opinion in an online-only format. The topics in this journal will be broad, reflecting the breadth of the subject matter, focusing on research that advocates change in, or illuminates, haematological clinical practice. This will include haematology-oncology, red and white blood cell disorders, platelet disorders, stem cell transplantation and induced pluripotent stem cells, transfusion medicine, and related conditions and diseases. Although there have been great leaps towards in haematological research and patient care, there is still much work to be done, and we hope you will join us in delivering better health.

ELSEVIER TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SUPPLY

1. Applicability

These terms and conditions apply to all offers, proposals, agreements made between the Publisher and the Client for any goods or services supplied by Elsevier. This agreement does not vary the express agreement between the parties (the "TC"). They supersede any previous understandings and agreements made between Elsevier and the Client or the Client’s representatives.

2. Consent and modification of the order

Any modifications to the product or service description, budget or schedule, as set out in the order shall be subject to Elsevier's agreement in writing. Any such variation to the terms and conditions of supply shall also be subject to the following terms:

3. Cancellations & Returns

If the Client cancels an order either fully or partially, a cancellation fee may be charged. All cancellations must be notified in writing to Elsevier. This fee will be calculated to cover any external or internal costs which have been incurred or committed up to and including the date of cancellation.

4. Client consent to modifications of any order

The Client must allow Publisher's authorized representative at any reasonable time to have access to Client's premises (or any other place where products or service are proposed by the Client) for the purpose of inspecting Client's facilities, books and records to verify Client's compliance with the TC.

5. Payment

Unless otherwise agreed in writing, payments shall be effected within thirty (30) days of the invoice date in the currency remitted. Invoices must be paid in full within the terms of the TC without any deduction or set-off. The parties agree to submit to the jurisdiction of the courts of the corporate domicile of the Elsevier company which is providing the Products or Services.

6. Audit

The formation, existence, construction, performance, validity and all aspects of the TC shall be governed by the law of the corporate domicile of the Elsevier company which is providing the Products or Services. The parties agree to submit to the jurisdiction of the courts of the corporate domicile of the Elsevier company which is providing the Products or Services.

7. Exclusions, limitations of liability, insurance

No warranties or representations are given, and no liability is assumed by Elsevier as to the accuracy of any advertisement supplied by the Client. Elsevier may terminate this TC in the event of a violation of this representation and "shall be entitled to refuse to perform any further obligations arising from the TC until such alternative payment has been received. When the Client is reimbursed for Elsevier’s cost of any printed matter, payment for the use of any printed matter shall be made in full in advance of the accounting period to which such payment relates. The Client shall be entitled to receive any remaining balance (if any) refund to Client a pro rata portion of the fee which Client has paid to Elsevier for display of the Advertising Content.
