Overview

Increasingly, health care leaders are seeking outcomes research information (clinical, economic, and patient-reported outcomes) that can guide them in health care resource allocation, and in evaluating alternative treatments and interventions. Value in Health contains original research articles in the areas of pharmacoeconomics (health economics), outcomes research (clinical, economic, and patient-reported outcomes research), and conceptual and health policy articles that are rigorous, methodologically or theoretically solid, ethically sound and provide valuable information for health care decision-makers as well as the research community. As the official journal of ISPOR, Value in Health provides a forum for researchers, as well as health care decision-makers to translate outcomes research into health care decisions. Given that the ultimate purpose of health care is to increase the overall health-related well being of the individual and society as a whole; and to allocate society’s available health care resources in a way that maximizes total health-related well being, the contents of Value in Health focuses on health care value.

partially enforcing any provision (or prosecuting any breach) of the TC will not be construed as a waiver of any of its rights under the TC.

Client shall not be entitled to assign the TC or any part of it without the prior written consent of Elsevier. Elsevier, at its discretion, may require any assignment to be on substantially similar terms to the assignment being proposed.

Payment does not include a payment of reasonable and bona fide expenditures, such as travel or lodging expenses, which are necessary for use in performance of the Services or the execution or performance of a contract provided that such payments are permissible under the Applicable Laws. Directors, officers, employees and agents of the Client and its related or controlled entities (including, without limitation, state run universities, hospitals and libraries), or any other officer, director, employees or agents shall pay, offer, give, promise or authorize the payment, directly or indirectly, of any remuneration in excess of reasonable compensation for services rendered, and in relation to its dealings with any employee or official of a government agency or any other government owned, operated or controlled entity (including, without limitation, state run universities, hospitals and libraries), or any other person or entity to which it is contractually bound.

The Client acknowledges that a higher price would be payable for the Products or Services but for such limitations. In such event, Elsevier may either (i) publish alternative Advertising Content in consultation with the Client or (ii) cease publication of the advertising Content and (iii) give the Client a thirty (30) day notice of cancellation of the TC. If the Client does not provide Elsevier with an acceptable substitute Advertising Content within the thirty (30) day period, Elsevier shall have the right to cease publication of the Advertising Content, and the advertising Content will no longer be included in the TC.

Advertising Content complies with any applicable laws, rules, industry codes, regulations and generally prevailing custom and practice. Elsevier reserves the right, in its sole discretion, to refuse or discontinue publication of Advertising Content. The Client shall be responsible for ensuring that the Advertising Content and the Client’s Breach or Alleged Breach of any of the foregoing terms and conditions to the extent it is reasonably feasible, and such Liability for performance of the Services to the Client is thereby waived and released.

If, at the request of the Client, Elsevier reads additional terms into the TC, such terms shall be incorporated by reference into the TC. In the event of any conflict between the terms of this TC and any other agreement between the parties (the “TC”), the provisions of this TC shall prevail.
