Overview

Increasingly, health care leaders are seeking outcomes research information (clinical, economic, and patient-reported outcomes) that can guide them in health care resource allocation, and in evaluating alternative treatments and interventions. Value in Health contains original research articles in the areas of pharmacoeconomics (health economics), outcomes research (clinical, economic, and patient-reported outcomes research), and conceptual and health policy articles that are rigorous, methodologically or theoretically solid, ethically sound and provide valuable information for health care decision-makers as well as the research community. As the official journal of ISPOR, Value in Health provides a forum for researchers, as well as health care decision-makers to translate outcomes research into health care decisions. Given that the ultimate purpose of health care is to increase the overall health-related well being of the individual and society as a whole; and to allocate society’s available health care resources in a way that maximizes total health-related well being, the contents of Value in Health focuses on health care value.

1. Applicability

These terms and conditions shall apply to all proposals, offers, and agreements made by and between the Client and Elsevier for the supply of Products and/or Services. For the purposes of this Agreement and the supply of Products and/or Services, the “Client” shall mean the Company or other entity on whose behalf the Client is contracting with Elsevier. Elsevier reserves the right to vary these terms and conditions at any time without prior notice. Any variations to the terms and conditions shall apply to any Client account from the date of the revised terms and conditions being made available electronically or by any other means agreed by the Client and Elsevier. The Client shall be bound by these terms and conditions unless and until the Client notifies Elsevier in writing that it no longer wishes to be bound by these terms and conditions. If the Client does not provide written notice of withdrawal, the Client shall be deemed to have accepted any revised terms and conditions unless the Client notifies Elsevier in writing that it no longer wishes to be bound by these terms and conditions within ten (10) days of the date Elsevier notifies the Client of the revised terms and conditions.

2. Compliance with laws
